Work of art

Alexandra Lemerise, 5, of New Hampshire gets her face painted by Jenna Hardy at the Bethel Art Fair Saturday. A smaller crowd than usual turned out for the event — perhaps because of the July 4th holiday on Tuesday, said Robin Zinchuk, executive director of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. Still, said Zinchuk, most artists involved felt they did at least as well in sales as last year.

Easements intrude on runway expansion plan

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A small cloud has formed over next year's planned expansion of the Bethel Airport runway, but airport manager Scott Cole said he is confident the matter can be resolved in time for construction to begin on schedule.

The problem in question involves rights of way across town-owned land near the end of the expanded runway.

The rights of way are used by the owners of otherwise landlocked properties to the west of the airport primarily for gravel and timber extraction, Cole said.

Unfortunately the road they use passes within 125 feet of the middle of the planned runway — well within the 250-foot wide primary surface required by the Federal Aviation Administration.

According to FAA the primary surface must be flat. "Nothing higher than a blade of grass," Cole said.

But the FAA also requires the entire primary surface be enclosed by an 8-foot high chain-link fence, with three strands of barbed wire on an outrigger at the top. If the fence here is moved to accommodate the rights of way, Cole said, then it will constitute a height encroachment into the primary surface area.

The situation is further complicated by an adjacent wetland (which limits options for moving the road) and by surveying discrepancies over time that have led to

Babe Ruth dustup gets attention from league

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Following a hotly contested Babe Ruth game that ended with a "near brawl" and the umpire leaving the field in fear for his own safety, league president Jim Delamater has written what he termed "a heads up" to town officials in Bethel, Greenwood and Woodstock.

The game in question took place in late May, between Bethel A (one of two Bethel teams) and the Greenwood/Woodstock team. The game, which ended in a tie, was eventually called due to darkness.

According to various witnesses, the game was immediately followed by a confrontation among two players who had been ejected during the game, the coaches, and some parents or other adults.

The game was umpired by Pat Swan of Wilton, who said the scene afterwards was, "like a street fight. It was really weird to turn around and see two towns fighting like that."

Details of the events are in dispute, said Delamater, but in his letter to town officials he wrote: "This situation could have resulted in serious injury and, at the very least is an example of conduct unbecoming to Babe Ruth Baseball, which promotes good sportsmanship and behavior."

Ron Savage, manager of the Greenwood/Woodstock team, agreed. "The whole mood of the game was very ugly," said Savage. "It wasn't pretty."

Swan agreed, saying he had been

Library trustees hash things out in Andover

By ALISON ALOISIO

The librarian feels she's treated like a child.

Some parents say sending their kids to the children's room in the basement of the library is like sending them to the dungeon.

The Internet cable connection on the librarian's computer mysteriously gets disconnected on a regular basis, and recently a printer driver was deleted.

Can the library trustees and the selectmen find their way through this maze of problems and restore tranquility to the Andover Library?

The trustees made an attempt last Wednesday night, as they stood by their original plan to develop the library basement into a children's library room, and voted to recommend more flexible hours for librarian Christine Mulvaney. They had no insights, however, regarding the computer problems.

The plan to use the basement as a children's library on a trial basis, and make improvements for the long term, has drawn some opposition from parents, according to several trustees. The plan was implemented last year.

Karen McKay said parents were concerned about young children being "separated from upstairs," and feeling like they had been put "in a dungeon somewhat."

Betsey White agreed. The parents, she said, "like to be upstairs looking for books, with the kids nearby looking for books."

Mulvaney said she had received positive feedback on the plan, with parents saying they did not feel obligated to keep their children as quiet as they would upstairs. About 20 children use the area regularly, she said.

The only negative comment she has received, she said, took the form of a note placed in the suggestion box one day after the library had closed.

Some trustees also expressed concern about supervision of young children downstairs. Policy states that "children three years of age and younger must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. When a librarian or volunteer is present and agrees, children 4-6 years of age may be allowed in the Children's

Roo rules the roost at Pooh

By ALISON ALOISIO

Like many new mothers, Carole Duplessis of Gilead has to allow extra time in the grocery store when she goes shopping with her baby snuggled in a front pack. Everyone wants to have a peek at the little one.

But in the case of this little one, the peek turns into a double take. Duplessis is carrying a baby wallaby in her "pouch."

"Roo," as the young wallaby is known, arrived at Duplessis' Pooh Corner Farm in Gilead two weeks ago. In keeping with the Winnie the Pooh theme at the farm, Roo joins Piglet the pig and Eeyore the donkey.

Roo weighs only a couple of pounds and stands about a foot tall. He spends most of his time sleeping in his pouch, which is lined with fleece.

"He loves fleece," said Duplessis. The fleece comes compliments of seamstress Suzy Wight of Bethel, who adapted a baby pouch that originally had holes for a human baby's legs. She sewed a solid fleece front on to the carrier.

When Roo isn't riding around with Duplessis, he's usually asleep in the pouch as it hangs inside a small, indoor pen in the Pooh Corner store.

His current diet consists of puppy

Androscoggin canoe trekkers due here Tuesday

The Androscoggin River Source to the Sea Canoe Trek started its voyage down the big river July 5, and will be in the Bethel area beginning July 10.

The Trek began in Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge, then proceeds in a series of daylong sections until it meets the Atlantic near Bath on July 23. Bald eagles, moose, osprey and other wildlife are frequently spied by those with sharp eyes.

In addition to paddling, there are a host of onshore community events in which the public is welcome to participate. The menu of both on-river and on-shore events offers something for everyone. "Fly-fishing clinics, history talks, canoe instruction and even a fun biathlon are some of the things people can join in on," said Sue Lincoln, trek coordinator. "The Trek is designed to show people what a great resource the river is, and boost their awareness of the conservation and development issues facing it. And of course, to have fun."

Wooden Canoe Day is slated for Monday, July 10, when the flotilla paddles from Shelburne to Gilead. A riverside bike ride is being offered in the evening by Moriah Sports at 6 p.m. at the railroad tressle bridge in Gorham.

MINERAL FIND MOVES GEM SHOW

To the Editor:

There has not been a large mineral find in the Bethel area in some time. On July 8 and 9, Bethel will experience a bit of irony. The Oxford County Mineral & Gem Association has had a long history of holding its annual Gem, Mineral and Jewelry Festival at Telstar Regional High School. Not this year. The mineral club faced a decision of whether to cancel or relocate the show because of a mineral find. Asbestos, yes asbestos, was found in the school. The only one interested in this mineral is the removal company, and it needed the whole school for the summer to complete its job before school opens in the fall. The best option for the mineral festival was to relocate and keep the annual event going.

This year the 39th annual Western Maine Gem, Mineral and Jewelry Festival will be held at Crescent Park School in Bethel. There will be signs at all major entrances to Bethel directing people to the new location. To show that change is good, many changes have been implemented. More dealers have been added to fill the gym and cafeteria. There will be dealers who deal in such mineral specimens as local and world, crystals for the holistic, loose-faceted gemstones, handcrafted jewelry and mineral related crafts. There will be 20 display cases full of educational mineral displays filled by the dealers. Another area that will be expanded will be the fluorescent mineral booth. At this display, common looking stones glow greens, reds, oranges and purples under long- and short-wave ultraviolet light.

For the hands-on mineral collectors, there will be two field trips. Saturday's trip will leave at 1 p.m. and Sunday's will leave at 11 a.m. The trip locations and fees will be posted at the show. This is a good opportunity for the novice collector to get help while collecting.

The biggest change will happen after the show closes on Saturday night. At 5:30 p.m. there will be a mineral swap. For this event to work there has to be three things. People willing to swap, minerals and swapping. The mineral club has invited mineral clubs from as far away as New York. This is a good way to add to collections. You bring what you have too much of and take home someone else's surplus.

The cost for admission is $2 per adult per day and $.50 for children under 12. The adult admission also enters you in a grand prize drawing for a lady's pink tourmaline ring valued at approximately $375. There will also be hourly door prizes. Make this a must see family activity and enjoy what the show has to offer. Show times are Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

MONGOLIA FACTS MANGLED

To the Editor:

There are several factual errors in the text accompanying Becky Chandler's photograph on Page 10 in the June 29 edition of the Bethel Citizen.

Mongolia became an independent country from China in 1911, although not all of historical Mongolia was included. It was never part of the USSR, as you seem to suggest, but rather became communist in 1921, after which it shared close relations with the USSR and other communist countries. It switched to a multi-party democracy in 1990, and the "difficult time" that you mention was a result of many factors, not just a lack of knowledge that their ancestors had possessed. Mongolian culture is largely based on nomadic herding, and therefore not well suited to the high-paced industrial development that was encouraged, or even forced, by Soviet development advisers and, more recently, by US policy.

I'm sure that it is hard to give much depth about a country in such little space as you had, but perhaps next time you could pay more attention to detail and maybe even get more information from the person involved, who hopefully would have a more complex understanding of the subject matter. This is critical to helping readers in Bethel and environs to understand the world beyond their borders, enabling them to become better citizens, not only of Bethel, but of the world.

hosts the Trek on July 11, and will feature a tour of Mahoosuc Land Trust properties. An evening campfire and storytelling at the Riverside Campground will start at 7:30 p.m. Families are especially welcome to this event.

Wednesday, July 12, is the Bethel to Rumford Point section, which will include a program on "Scouting for Trout" by Maine Inland Fish and Wildlife staff. The Mahoosuc Land Trust will host a potluck supper at the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel at 6 p.m. this will be followed by a "Canoe Trek" slide show at 7 p.m.

Organized as a series of day trips along the 170-mile long river, the Trek is free for participants. Paddlers bring their own canoe and equipment, but an experienced leader and a ride back to day's starting point are provided. The entire headwaters to tidewaters journey is 19 days long, though most trekkers come along for a single day. Organizers do require paddlers to pre-register by calling the day's section leader. See contact information.

The attention brought to the river via the Trek has been a productive and positive force working for the health of the river and its watershed, according to Lincoln. A direct result of the Source to the Sea Canoe Trek is the formation of the Androscoggin River Watershed Council. This new group is made up of stakeholders throughout the river's length, and includes environmental groups, forest product companies, individuals and state agencies from both New Hampshire and Maine.

"The watershed council is a first for Maine," says Marcel Polak, the Appalachian Mountain Club's Upper Androscoggin Valley field director and chair for the council. "It brings together diverse groups to work on the health of the watershed and its communities.

Once one of the dirtiest rivers in the region, the Androscoggin has undergone a renaissance. Its overall cleanliness is vastly improved from the days when it was nicknamed "Stinking Creek." While sections of the river are now classified as swimable by the Environmental Protection Agency, the river still has a ways to go.

"It's better than it was," says Barry Mower of the Maine Department of environmental Protection. "But it's not good enough." The new council's mission is to improve environmental quality and promote healthy and prosperous communities in the Androscoggin River watershed.

Sponsored by a consortium of business and environmental groups, the Canoe Trek is set up as a way for each river community to celebrate the progress made in recent years in cleaning up the river, and to call attention to the river's value as an economic and recreational resource.

"We are raffling off a brand new Lincoln Canoe and other prizes to help defray the costs of the Trek," said Lincoln. "Buy a raffle ticket, paddle on the Trek, come to some of the events, learn about this amazing resource we have in our neighborhood."

A brochure and schedule describing the Trek is available by calling 824-0191 or (603) 466-4524.

formula, raw oatmeal, Gerber vegetable baby food and raw sweet potatoes. Later, he'll eat grain as a primary staple of his diet.

As an adult, the wallaby will weigh 75 pounds and stand three feet high. Kangaroos can grow to more than six feet tall.

Roo will be able to jump 30 feet in distance, but only a couple of feet in height, Duplessis said.

She obtained the baby marsupial from Domestic, Exotic and Wild, an animal park in Mt. Vernon, where he was born. Duplessis was required to get a permit from the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife.

Piglet, the Vietnamese pot-bellied pig, was not at all pleased when Roo appeared.

The pig has always slept in a dog carrier in the house. But when he came in the house shortly after Roo arrived and found the wallaby hanging in the pouch, "he started to snort," said Duplessis. "A really angry snort. He wouldn't have anything to do with me, and it was all over."

Since then, Piglet has slept outside and only comes inside to eat.

Roo will eventually be outside as well, kept in a heated shed in the winter. As he grows, Duplessis hopes to leash train him.

She isn't sure, however, which member of the family will have the task of walking an animal that takes 30-foot-long steps.

Andover approves road work

ANDOVER—Fifteen voters at last week's special Town Meeting approved $27,911 to pave Church and Pine streets and voted to spend $1 to purchase a 1992 ambulance from Med-Care. Selectmen recommended using $22,540 from surplus plus $5,375 left from another paving project to fund the paving. The existing pavement will be reclaimed as a base for the new, which will be a cold mix application. It was also voted to allow the firefighters' association to dispose of the town's old 1982 ambulance. Fire Chief Ken Dixon said the association could get $500 for it from Gilead. In an announcement made at the beginning of the meeting, selectman Wendy Green said Steve Swasey of Swasey Excavation donated $2,000 to complete work on a Civil War Memorial on the town common. Five hundred dollars had been raised at Town Meeting for the project, but it proved more costly than originally expected.

Oxford Hills Community College?

PARIS—The Oxford Hills Higher Education Initiative is in the beginning stages of considering a community college in the area. The effort will be in cooperation with the University of Southern Maine, Central Maine Technical College and SAD17 Adult Education. The goal is to encourage student participation in postsecondary educational experiences, to increase opportunities for students to begin college level work in their hometown area, and to encourage secondary students to enrich their high school program with college level programming. A committee of educators and citizens plan to meet July 18 to discuss the proposal. A Board of Directors will be established at a later date. For more information call 743-8830 ext.121 or email Christy@oxfordhills.org.

Board of Selectmen neutered

LIVERMORE FALLS—The Board of Selectmen in Livermore Falls is now the Board of Selectpersons. Board members voted unanimously last week to change the name to be gender neutral. Selectperson John Wakefield noted that many boards in Maine have done the same. "I have two daughters and I would have a hard time calling them selectmen," he said.

Handicapped-accessible hut opens

FRANCONIA, N.H.—New Hampshire's newest Appalachian Mountain Club hut offers environmentally sensitive, state-of-the-art accommodations to anyone who makes the grueling journey to its door — including the disabled. The hut opened June 2 in the White Mountain National Forest, complete with composting toilets, solar panels and a wheelchair ramp. The hut is the first in New Hampshire to meet all federal Americans with Disabilities Act standards. The hut is at 3,800 feet elevation and 4.6 miles from the nearest access road. Despite the fact that it is the most isolated of the club's eight huts, members of a University of New Hampshire-based group are hoping to get three wheelchair users and two other disabled people to the hut next month. The 2,500-square-foot hut cost $450,000 to build and sleeps 35 people. It replaces a 1931 building that was torn down last fall. Hikers who aren't Appalachian Mountain Club members pay about $65 a night, including meals.

WMNF to be out of roadless plan?

SHELBURNE, N.H.—Sen. Judd Gregg of New Hampshire attached a provision to a bill addressing Pres. Clinton's roadless plan for national forests that would exempt the White Mountain National Forest from the plan. The proposal would prohibit new road construction or reconstruction in unroaded portions of inventoried roadless areas in the National Forest system. Gregg, a member of the Interior Appropriations Committee, said his amendment would allow public participation at the local level in the decision, rather than Washington imposing a decision. A spokesman for the Wilderness Society, however, said the amendment, if successful, would accomplish just what Gregg said he opposed: a top-down decision made without the input of constituents. The bill was next scheduled to go to the full Senate for consideration.

Atlantic license suspended

AUGUSTA—Atlantic Driving School's license has been suspended for two months for violating state regulations. The suspension went into effect June 1. Violations included failure to adhere to teaching curriculum standards, having an unlicensed facility and record keeping violations. Specifically, said Robert O'Connell, director of driver license services for the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Atlantic did not file class reports indicating who was in the class in the required time, issued a completion certificate to someone before he or she completed the course, did not file information on official forms and taught in a classroom before it was approved by BMV. Atlantic owners Gary and Glenda Webb must correct the school's practices and will be issued a probationary license for two years.

Fish thriving in Kennebec

AUGUSTA—A year after giant backhoes tore down a dam that had blocked the Kennebec River for 162 years, sea-run fish are swimming upstream in stunning numbers and the water is more full of life than it's been in generations. Conservationists say something else has been accomplished since the Edwards Dam became the first dam ordered removed by the federal government as a way to protect the environment. Since the dam's removal last year, two dozen others from Idaho to North Carolina have come down, and at least 18 others are scheduled to be removed this year. The dams create power, protect towns from floods, improve navigation and provide irrigation, but environmentalists say hundreds of them across the country have outlived their usefulness and are causing environmental damage. In Maine, removing Edwards Dam opened up an upstream stretch of the Kennebec River to Atlantic salmon, striped bass, endangered shortnosed sturgeon and other fish for the first time since the 1830s. Atlantic salmon found their way to their native waters just weeks after the dam's demolition.

More prescription narcotic abuse

AUGUSTA—The state Drug Task Force prosecuted fewer heroin and cocaine cases during the past year, but saw more cases across the state involving prescription narcotics, according to Attorney General Andrew Ketterer. Overall, 408 cases were prosecuted between July 1999 and June 30. The total is only five more than during the same period last year. However, the number of cases involving use and sale of prescription narcotic drugs rose from 48 to 70. At the same time, the number of marijuana cases dropped from 162 to 148. Statewide, the number of heroin cases dropped from 51 to 41, while combined figures for crack and cocaine show the total dropping from 125 to 117. Users 30 and under tended to become involved with hallucinogenic drugs like ecstasy and LSD, and heroin. Users over 30 were more likely to use marijuana, powder and crack cocaine and illegally diverted prescription pills.

THS Class of '80 reunion

Officer cools off hot dumpster

At 7:15 p.m. on July 2 an officer was dispatched to a Route 2 business for a dumpster on fire near a propane tank. The officer kept the fire under control using an extinguisher until the Bethel Fire Department arrived.

Saturday, July 1

Beginning at 10 p.m. police conducted an OUI Emphasis Patrol with the following results: warnings for two inadequate plate lights; one inadequate headlight, two speeding; one failure to dim headlights, one operating without headlights, inspection and insurance; two erratic operations; one summons for speeding and one arrest for failure to appear.

At 10:40 p.m. a subject for whom it was believed there was an outstanding warrant was observed walking on Main Street. The warrant was confirmed and Karen P. Wheeler, 21, of Rumford was taken to the Oxford County Jail.

Sunday, July 2

At 11 p.m. police observed a subject walking down Main Street yelling obscenities. The officer warned him to stop or he would be arrested for disorderly conduct. He stopped at that time, but while the officer continued talking with him, he started yelling again. Chad Bean was arrested for disorderly conduct. A short time later, a juvenile female arrived and also began yelling. She was also arrested for disorderly conduct.

Andover

Library unaccompanied, but the parent or guardian must remain in the library."

Mulvaney said it is a common practice in libraries to have the children's area in the basement, and that arrangement works well. And, she said, moving the children's area back upstairs would create space problems.

Concerns were also expressed about the financing of the basement improvements.

Some of the work has been paid for with grant money. Trustee Honey Cronin wrote and successfully submitted a grant application to the Betterment Fund for $8,100. About half that has been spent so far.

Cronin said if trustees decided to change the children's room location, she would feel obligated to contact the Betterment Fund and ask if the grant money could still be used.

The trustees eventually voted to continue the downstairs plan. "Whatever we do, somebody's going to be irritated," said board president Brad Thibodeau.

White, McKay, Peggy Madigan and Alys Parsons voted against the plan.

More flexible hours

The hours worked by Mulvaney have also been a source of controversy in recent months.

After concern arose about the legality of Mulvaney working, at no charge to the town, more than the 20 hours a week set out by a Town Meeting vote, a policy restricting her working schedule was put in place.

The librarian was to work one hour outside the regular library hours on each day the library was open (four days a week), either immediately before or after library hours. The library is open 16 hours a week.

If Mulvaney had reason to deviate from the hours outside library time, she was required to get permission from the selectmen. To go to Wednesday's meeting, for example, she wrote a letter to selectmen requesting she be able to attend.

Thibodeau suggested instead Mulvaney's requests go in writing to him, after which he would consult with vice president Peggy Madigan. They would then decide on schedule variations.

Madigan also works as custodian for the library.

Selectman Wendy Green favored Thibodeau's plan. "What do I know about library business? We've got wages and hours, period," she said of the selectmen's duties.

But from Mulvaney's perspective, she said, "That just changes (getting written permission) from one group to another."

At times during the two-hour meeting, the soft-spoken Mulvaney appeared testy when responding to trustee questions and comments.

Although the recommendation to have Mulvaney report to Thibodeau would not relax her procedural requirements, the trustees did support further flexibility in the schedule. She could, for example, attend a conference during library hours if volunteers could cover the library, and if the trustee officials approved. And the hours worked outside library hours could be grouped together in a larger (or smaller) block.

Selectmen must approve the recommendation for it to take effect.

Mulvaney took a strict interpretation in defining under what circumstances she acts as librarian. She questioned, for instance, whether she could teach a computer class in Adult Education without technically representing the library — and thus putting in library working hours.

Trustees said in that case, she would be a librarian who happened to be teaching a computer class.

Computer mystery

In other business at the meeting, Mulvaney told trustees she has been having recurring problems with her computer for several months.

Since January, she said, she has used her desk computer with no trouble on Saturdays. But after closing the library and returning on Tuesdays, the Internet connection failed to work. On checking, Mulvaney found a cable connection had been pulled apart.

And two weekends ago, she said, the printer driver was deleted — an event that can only occur if several commands are given, she said.

"Very strange," said Mulvaney.

Trustees also discussed the possibility of adding an assistant librarian or substitute librarian position, but tabled it in favor of possibly including the position in the next budget.

The trustees' next scheduled meeting is September 18 at 7 p.m.

Babe Ruth

heckled throughout the later innings by the Bethel team and its fans. "They complained about my every call," he said.

That was not the case with the Greenwood/Woodstock squad, according to the umpire. On one occasion when a Greenwood/Woodstock fan loudly questioned a call, Swan said, "Ron turned around and said, 'We're not going to be like that.' And that was the end of it."

Jim Largess, assistant coach of the Bethel team, recalls the situation somewhat differently. (The team manager, Chris Olson, could not be reached for comment.)

"Swan could have done a better job controlling the game," Largess said. "You don't control a game by throwing kids out."

He also blamed the fans — for both teams. "The umpire was getting ridden hard from both sides," he said.

The problem was not with the players themselves Largess said. "The kids were fine. This was a classic case where the adults need to learn from the kids. Some adults are having a problem accepting that they are not playing but watching. A few people are having a real struggle with that."

Savage said he hoped the teams — many of whose 13- to 15-year-old members play together in other sports — could put the matter behind them.

"The whole crux of the thing is, this is about kids, and it should be about baseball, not about anything else," Savage said.

There will not be any further disciplinary action from the league, Delamater said. "We're not a league where the league makes a lot of decisions. Those are the coaches' and towns' decisions," he said.

He said the two teams have apparently learned from the incident. "From what I've heard since," he said, "both teams have worked overtime to keep things calm since then."

Delamater said he was unaware of any similar incidents during the current Babe Ruth season.

"On the whole it's been pretty quiet," he said, "but on any given night, depending on a whole bunch of circumstances, anything can happen. It seemed like everybody had a hand in this one."

The full text of Delamater's letter follows:

"On or about May 29, Bethel A, managed by Chris Olson, visited Greenwood/Woodstock, managed by Ron Savage. The game was umpired by Pat Swan and was called due to darkness with the score tied.

"Apparently, according to reports from several parents, both coaches and the umpire, the game was hotly contested throughout and, subsequently, following the game, a near brawl erupted which resulted in the umpire leaving amidst what he termed "fear for his own safety" and the contention that several people were guilty of assault and/or, at the very least, unsuitable conduct, i.e., swearing, angry gestures and so forth.

"At the very least, parents and coaches noted that the game contained a lot of verbal questioning of umpire's calls which, at one point during the game, led to the ejection of two Bethel players. Later, after the game, an altercation resulted amidst a conversation between the two ejected players and their parents and/or other parties whereby both coaches became involved in a shouting match which, according to both coaches, involved some physical contact.

"The actions, which took place during and after this game, led to communication with the league office from the umpire, the head of umpires, both coaches and several parents. As with many situations of this nature, the stories vary greatly and, given that no league official was present, it is virtually impossible to determine exactly who was responsible.

"Therefore, subsequent to discussion amongst league officials, we believe it is appropriate to assume that both teams could, with hindsight, have conducted themselves better. This situation could have resulted in serious injury and, at the very least, is an example of conduct unbecoming to Babe Ruth baseball, which promotes good sportsmanship and behavior.

"Hence, the league has notified each coach of their responsibility to do whatever possible to avoid such confrontations and, of course, to preach the value of good sportsmanship. Please note that, apparently, a significant amount of the verbal abuse, both during and after the game, came from fans and, while we recognize that coaches are not responsible for fan behavior, we encourage them to discuss with their players and, if possible some of the fans, the need for appropriate behavior.

"In years past, we have been encouraged to notify the sponsoring town of any incidents which may or may not result in suspensions, ejections and the like. I reiterate that this letter is not intended to cast blame on any particular coach or team, rather simply to alert town officials and coaches of the need to do whatever possible to avoid a repeat of this kind of behavior."

Runway

uncertainties over some property lines.

"But the town doesn't dispute the rights of way," Cole said. "We're just trying to find a way to resolve the situation."

The ball is now in the FAA's court. The town has asked the agency whether it can accept such a height encroachment into the primary surface area.

Cole said he hoped to hear back from the agency "any day now. This thing has got to be cleared up."

Other preliminary work for the runway expansion appears to be going smoothly, he said.

The $2 million project will expand the length of the runway from 3,150 to 4,000 feet and the width from 60 to 75 feet.

Work is expected to take place in a two- to three-month period next year. The current runway will remain open through most of that time, Cole said, but at some point it will be closed completely for two weeks.

On Friday, the Eichels left for home in Worcester, Mass., to attend their daughter's wedding. He will then return home to South Carolina before leaving to visit with his daughter in Jackson Hole, Wyo.

Lisa, Laura and Andrea Pivin and Linda Westleigh followed Aunt Isabelle Bennett home to Lexington, Mass., for an overnight stay on the 26th. The morning after they drove the girls, Laura and Andrea to the airport for a flight to Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where they will visit with their grandmother, Jean Royer, for a few weeks.

Earlon and Mary Keniston enjoyed a weekend visit with her sister, Ida Lee Bryant and friend Glenna Rush of Bangor. On their way back to Bethel they visited with Evelyn Chapman at the home of Bill and Joan Roberts in East Bethel. Mary joined her visitors for a visit with brother and wife, Bud and Shirley Clough on the Flat Road in West Bethel. They also visited on Saturday with Donald Rice of Waterford, Alton and Donna Howe of North Waterford and Gale and Louann Bell of Norway. On Sunday, Earlon and Mary were treated to dinner in New Hampshire and Earlon drove them through the White Moutains to Conway, N.H., Fryeburg and home. ### The Bethel House

by Ruth Cummings

Correction: It should have been Erin Dennis and not Erin Daniels as was written in last week's paper.

Sylvia Clark of Rowe Hill Road in Greenwood visited me on Friday and we went to the Frozen Logger to eat. That certainly is a great place to eat with great food and great service.

KC Denton was at the Bethel House on Friday on maintenance. He is from PMV Coastal.

Carroll Bean visited his wife, Bea, at the Ledgeview Nursing Home recently and took her to Milan, N.H. to visit relatives.

Florence Morgan visited her sister, Eva Lane, recently and helped her with her housework and went to the store with her.

Jan Hill's sister visited her recently here at the Bethel House. She spent the night.

"Turn your eyes upon Jesus/Look full in His wonderful face/And the things of this earth will grow strangely dim/As you're in the light of His glory and grace."

Pastor Rick's message for Sunday, June 25, was "A Pulpit Side Chat: Fasting." It was really great. Pastor Rick also showed a video. Two hymns we sang I remember of singing when I was a child and attended the Newry Church with my mother, "What Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Rebecca Ricker of the Bethel House went to Lewiston with Beatrice Smith of Rumford recently and visited with Mildred Newell at St. Mary's Nursing Home.

Vada Glover spent the day with me Tuesday. We played 10 games of cribbage and we each won five, so we are still the same with Vada three games in the lead. We went to Ames in Rumford and ate at Teena's and then to Vada's house on Taggart Road in Rumford so I could see her cats. We had a thundershower with wind-driven rain while we were at her house. The rain came in sheets. We did not check Vada's rain gauge, but when I got home I had .6 of an inch. Ronnie said he got .65 in the shower. Warren reported three and one-quarter drops.

Drew and Judy Webster were in Bridgton recently.

Have a nice week everyone and God bless.

CELEBRATES 90TH
Bertha Flanders of Locke Mills was recently honored on her 90th birthday at a party held June 25 at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills. The affair was catered by her Eastern Star sisters, and the cake was made by a grand niece (Linda Hill). Hymns were sung by her minister, the Rev. Debbi Jenks, Charlotte Cole on guitar and Mary Russ. She received a letter of congratulations from Gov. Angus King and a card from President and Mrs. Clinton. Over 150 people attended her party, including many relatives, friends, Eastern Star friends and a state senator. "Aunt Bertha," as she is called by most of the people in Locke Mills, has lived in Locke Mills all her life.

Locke Mills

by Lorraine Larson

Maynard and Mary Hazelton will be visiting their son, Gary Fuller, in Locke Mills from July 4 to 13. All friends and relatives are welcome to come by and visit with them. They would love to see all their old friends from this area.

It has been a week since I had my MRI. Since, thankfully, they found nothing in my head (I could have told them I was empty-headed with nothing between my ears, ha, ha) I have been instructed to do some exercises three times a day. Why it is called an exercise I have no idea. My idea of exercise is doing something which requires moving. This exercise has me flat on the bed with my head hung over it and turned first to the right for one minute, then I get to sit up (I guess this is where exercise comes in) for one minute, then my head hangs down straight for one minute, then up again, then repeat to the left. Personally, I think this was designed to get me used to being dizzy so that I won't bug them anymore. As for my hearing, the doctor was not optimistic that I could once again hear peepers with my right ear, but I can live with that.

I visited my sister-in-law, Mary E. Mills, who was in intensive care at Stephens Memorial Hospital, on Monday. Wednesday they moved her to Room 125 but she still is quite sick. We all hope she gets better and real soon.

If you haven't been in Bob's Corner Store lately, you need to take a look at his new look. It certainly makes it look bigger and airier. Who would think a few different shelves could so change a place. I'm sure they've also done more than just change a few shelves, but that is the first thing I noticed.

Bryant Pond

by Alice Hoyt

Patch the Pirate Club meets on Wednesday evenings each week at 6:30 p.m., the same time as prayer meeting at the Baptist Church. All children first through sixth grade are welcome to attend. Thursday evening at 6 p.m. is a church-wide visitation. Choir is now meeting for practice on Sunday at 4:45 p.m. instead of Saturday. On July 16 missionaries, Larry and Melissa Strout, will be at the Baptist Church for the morning service at 10:30 a.m. Sunday evening, July 16, a baptism is planned. July 18 will be the church meeting. July 17 through 21 is Vacation Bible School and it will be held 2 to 4:15 p.m. each afternoon with a closing service on Friday evening at 6:30 p.m. All children are welcome to attend.

While talking with Louise Newton today, she told me she had an unwanted visitor this morning; a snake was resting on her telephone this morning. The animal officer came and took him away. She has no idea how he got in.

Judith Grover Tent 17 Daughters of Union Veterans will meet on July 10 at Helvi Cary's for a picnic, weather permitting, at 5:30 p.m.

Teena's Restaurant in beautiful East Rumford is now open for the season and she still has her $4.50 luncheon specials.

Shawn Crockett visited his grandparents, Ken and Alice Hoyt, one day this week. Marybeth Hoover also was a visitor.

Larry, Elsie and Jimmy Bonney recently watched the Historical Society museum and displayed a wall-sized photo for the society that badly needed to be put up. Much thanks. Edith Morey has given some paper items to the society and Phyllis Lowe has given some photos of the flood in 1953. Much thanks to them. The Historical Society is an exciting place. In fact, Curator Larry Billings has just been rearranging some exhibits to better advantage. The society is always thinking of new ways to serve the public. Be sure and visit this summer. There is currently a special exhibit of postcards from the society's collection in the museum. With it Curator Larry Billings has placed a silver pitcher with artificial flowers for decorations.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

This day is beautiful. The morning was clear and bright with just a bit of mist over the pond, but burned away. The sky turned to a lovely blue. The pond water danced and sparkled.

Now I'm waiting to see "my" summer flower. The fields change. As they change they take on a new look. Everything changes. There appears a flower, Queen Anne's lace, a lace-work masterpiece on display, worthy of its name. Find it. Enjoy it. Sometimes beauty is silent. If you look closely at the flower head, you will see lots of small branches growing out of the main flower stalk and a dark spot in the middle. That is a mystery.

A crown of clouds floats to just above the mountaintops.

It is nice to view the world sometimes just to see the beauty, such as clouds, butterflies, lacey ferns and the trees.

Ann has returned home from the Maine Medical Hospital in Portland, where she had surgery on June 27.

Leonas Holt is much better.

Several of Fay Holt's family visited her over the week.

I have had several visitors this week.

As I close this, the July sun is bright. Leaf clouds shimmer slanting upward from the valley toward the clear view of the sky.

East Bethel

by Nancy Mercer

Rudi Honkala returned from his trip to Australia on June 30. He flew from San Francisco to Sydney for 12 hours and was met by many friends he had wintered with in the Antarctic 40 years ago. He had a very enjoyable trip.

Jack and Tricia Chappie spent the Fourth with her father at Roxbury Pond. They have a small kids' pool, which feels good on hot, muggy days.

Mary Bean and Arthur Hertell attended a poolside dinner at Michael and Heidi Bean's in Milton on July 2.

Alder River Grange will have a meeting on July 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the hall. There will be a 6:30 p.m. potluck supper before the meeting.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

Our little town was filled to capacity for the Fourth of July weekend. There were barbecues and homecomings all over town. The annual cannon "boom" from the Lakeside Colony in Cambridge N.H. sounded off, as it does every year, to announce the holiday. Fireworks from Errol could be seen in the distance and a few lit up the sky at closer quarters.

We have very few children living in Upton, so it is always a big deal to us when visitors arrive for the holiday with a passel of little ones. Grant and Betty Geiling arrived with four of theirs plus another family with four more. Carl and Carolyn Taylor children, and children's children also spent the Fourth in town. Steven and Elisa, grandchildren of Sandy and Gene Wixom, came with their parents. Dick and Sue Angevine had a houseful of children and grandchildren. Caitlyn Hamel and her baby sister, Anna Marie, also came to visit Grandma and Grandpa Hamel. Cameron Bouchard visited with Great-grandma and Great-grandpa Williamson. The Goodrums had a houseful with children and grandchildren plus Arline and Arthur Pond from Pennsylvania.

I had a surprise visit from Carol Decatur, formerly Carol Larson. Carol lived here 25 years ago. She was accompanied by her husband, Scott Decatur. They now live in Epsom, N.H.

Buzz Connelly was in town doing repairs on his camp. Regis Cameron and his family visited on Back Street. Frank Tucker was also enjoying his camp on Mill Road.

Pok Sun and David Lane surprised us while we were out, by installing a colorful loon flag. We always knew we were a bit "loony," but now we have a flag to prove it.

Jim Kenney has been "batching" it for two weeks while Evelyn is gallivanting around Georgia and South Carolina. I had a postcard from Charleston and she may not return to Upton, she is having such a good time.

If the cars parked at the Public Landing in Cambridge were any indication of the number of people on Lake Umbagog they would have had to employ a traffic cop. Lake Umbagog is no longer a "secret" and it makes one wonder what the future will hold. There are nesting loons on the lake and the boat traffic is bound to affect them.

I visited with our Library ladies on Saturday. They have the little building looking wonderful. Volunteers, Sue Angevine and Vi Bernier, have worked hard sorting books and putting things in order. A representative from the State of Maine Library visited this week and made recommendations that will further benefit the library. She recommended that a "Board of Trustees" be formed. When this "board" is formed we will receive quite a bit of assistance from the state. The library is open from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Saturdays. Sue and Vi would like more volunteers to assist them. They also stated that there is a shortage of children's books. Any donations will be gratefully accepted. Thank you to the Bethel Library for the donation of a set of encyclopedias.

Neil Bernier dropped into the library on his way to work at the N.H. State Campground, formerly the Lake Umbagog Campground. Neil has finished his first year of college and is pursuing a career in travel and hotel management.

The "Bird of the Week" is the cedar waxwing. I think they are one of the neatest, most beautiful birds to visit. Ray and Vi Bernier have a flock of them up on Back Street. We usually have them around the Dead Cambridge River, and I'd like to go looking for them but the "bugs" are horrendous on the bridge.

The Fourth of July has come and gone. It is such a wonderful holiday. We are the luckiest people in the world to live and enjoy the benefits of our "Free Country."

Andover

by Joan Stinson Carney

Our extended family is growing all the time. Pastor Duane and Joan Waite proudly announce the birth of twin grandchildren. Caitlyn Marie and Caleb Johnny Harris were born on June 21, 2000. Their proud and by now exhausted parents are Sandy (Waite) and State Trooper Brian Harris. They live in Mars Hill.

On Saturday, July 8, Marion Bodwell of Andover will celebrate her 99th birthday, and on Wednesday, July 12, Margaret Smith of East Andover will celebrate her 99th birthday. Happy Birthday to you both. What a wonderful thing it is.

There is a new project in town nowadays, something special, called the "Giving Garden," and on Tuesday, July 11, at 6 p.m. the community gardeners would like you to join them to pull a few weeds and help draw a map of the garden. It is a vegetable and flower garden being cared for by local children and adults and is located next to the C.E. Building at the First Congregational Church in Andover. The ripe vegetables will be given to local food pantries. A picnic is planned for July 18. For more information, call Emily Bodemer at 392-1282.

Mrs. Ellen Jones and three children of Virginia Beach, Va., visited several days last week with her father, Richard Sullivan of East Andover.

Alan, Kim and Miranda Stinson are visiting family and friends until July 11.

Do you have any large American flags that you would like to donate to the town? We are in need of some; they are flown over the common and Woodlawn Cemetery. My late husband's flag sat in a plastic bag for 10 years because I didn't know what to do with it and really didn't want to throw it away, so it is now flying over the common, and it gives me a nice feeling every time I see it. If you have any you want to donate, because they don't last too long, call Marshall Meisner and he will be happy to accept them.

Ever since the Citizen announced its new "Acts of Kindness" articles, I've been thinking about my own acts of kindness, and mainly my omissions. I once read somewhere that just for today I will do something nice for someone else, I will not tell anyone about it, I will try just for today to be kind, gentle and understanding especially around the people I live with. Some days, to be perfectly honest, most days, I find that very hard to do. Some days I find it very hard to be kind to anyone even myself. It's something I have to really work on, so it's nice to be reminded.

The new word for this week is "jabber." I think this word is very appropriate for what we will be facing in the next few months. As election time grows nearer, we are all going to be subjected to an awful lot of it. Personally, I'm already tired of it. Jabber means to gibber, babble, mutter; in other words to talk a whole lot and not say anything that makes any sense. Get ready for a lot of jabber. Till next week.

Ras Bachelder and wife, Karlene, celebrated Father's Day on June 18 with a cookout at their daughter Heidi and Arlan Littlefield's home in Bethel with relatives and friends.

John and Nancy Wight celebrated Father's Day with a cookout at their home with family and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Romano had a cookout for Father's Day at their home in Wiscasset on June 25 with Ras and Karlene Bachelder, Michelle and husband Paul Josephson and son Nick of Cumberland, Heidi and Arlan Littlefield, Julie and daughter Natalie of Bethel and all relatives. And of course, I was also there to enjoy.

I have an unwelcomed guest on my porch on the couch, who comes every sunny day — it's a snake (about a yard long). I've been watching it for about a month now, and one of these days I will get rid of it, one way or another. I hope it is not pregnant. I would hate to have to get rid of a bunch of them at one time.

"Dog Days" are supposed to be between July 3 and Aug. 11, so said the ancient Greeks and Romans — and snakes are supposed to go blind during "Dog Days" when they shed their skin — I wonder if it's true.

The Way I See It

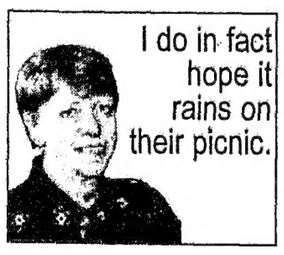
by Sharon Bouchard

I find it really annoying when people feel they have to punctuate their statements with "Ya know what I mean?"

It's my belief that most of the time when people say "Ya know what I mean?", they probably don't know what they mean and are hoping that I do. If they don't know what they mean, I certainly don't and in most cases probably don't care to know what they mean anyway.

Other times "Ya know what I mean?" follows such an obvious statement that it insults one's intelligence; "Sure hope it doesn't rain on our picnic, ya know what I mean?" Of course I know what they mean and because they felt they had to clarify it, I do in fact hope it rains on their picnic.



I do in fact hope it rains on their picnic.

If it doesn't rain on their picnic, I wonder if it will be "hot enough for em." I know that people use meaningless phrases as a form of greeting or just to have something to say to break the ice, but how are you suppose to answer this?

I'm not sure exactly what my "hot enough" set point is, but I think its 82 degrees. Everything below that is not "hot enough" and everything above that is too hot. It's pretty obvious when it's 102 degrees in the shade, the humidity is at an all time high and my tongue is hanging down to my toes that it has gone way beyond "hot enough."

The same goes for "cold enough for ya?" It just so happens that my "cold enough" set point is 65 degrees and anything below is colder than I care to have it. Usually when people ask if it's "cold enough for ya?" its 32 degrees below zero which is too cold for anyone, trust me.

Actually, I recommend that you don't trust anyone who says "trust me." Any person who feels they have to add this footnote probably can't be trusted and knows it. I have a tendency to encourage folks to "trust me" a little too much myself. It's not that I'm not a trustworthy individual, after all, I used to be a Girl Scout, but things can go wrong that are out of my control.

Someone may entrust me with their newspaper advertising and I feel I can be trusted to put it together the way they want it. They may express concern that it will be done to their satisfaction and I may say, "Sure, trust me." I am not, however, taking into consideration all the areas that I can't trust like computers, composing rooms, presses and other people. So when people say "trust me," their intentions may be good, but don't put too much trust in them anyway, even if it's me.

I will never tell you "no problem" because those two little words are guaranteed to bring on a host of problems. A lot of people who will tell you "no problem" are in fact the primary problem. "No problem," like "trust me" may be spoken by people with good intentions, but those people are usually taking it upon themselves to speak for others who may very well have a problem. So, you see, there probably will be a problem when you're told "no problem."

"I'll talk to ya later," is another one of those empty phrases people use all the time, myself included. I use it most of the time as a conversation ender with people who I have no intentions of talking to later. I've even had times when I have told a telemarketer trying to sell me a set of Time Life Books on the History of Every War in the World, "I'll talk to you later." I'm definitely not going to talk to this person later as much as they are hoping that I will.

I think that we are losing the fine art of simple conversation. What is so difficult about saying, "Hi, how are you?" instead of "Hot/cold enough for ya?" Why can't people end a conversation by just saying "good-bye"? We really don't have to say "I'll talk to you later" or "I'll see you later" when in reality we probably will neither talk to nor see this person later.

When someone request something of us, it would be much more honest to say "I'll do the best I can," rather than "trust me," or "no problem," especially when we really don't mean it or have no control over it.

The way I see it, we should stick to saying exactly what we mean using the simplest words possible without adding unnecessary meaningless phrases...ya know what I mean?

JULY 6 2000

We're not neighborly like we should be or used to be.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Angevine were among those who came and visited for a while.

Richard Wing is off for a few days this week from work at Bethel MDOT.

I went to pick up medicine at the new Ketner Pharmacy in South Paris. It is very nice and the employees are always pleasant and helpful.

Kudos to Duane Ryerson, who has not missed a day of work because of sickness (he has only had vacations) in the past 19 years. What a record. He should be proud to be such a diligent worker. There should be more like him.

There was an interesting article about Becky Chandler who will be living in Mongolia for the Peace Corps. She'll be training for three months and then get a permanent assignment somewhere in Mongolia. We wish her much luck in her endeavor for such a worthwhile purpose. Becky is the daughter of Jim and Jane Chandler of South Woodstock.

Carol Hall, Sandra Gunther and George Olson have been on a trip to the country of Norway. Their ancestors were from there some years ago, so the trip was very interesting. They are now home and I heard they had a wonderful time.

Troy Wing of Bryant Pond was recently promoted to the rank of captain in the U.S. Air Force. He is a KC-135 taker pilot based at McConnell Air Force Base in Wichita, Kan. Troy resides in Wichita with his wife, Lorie, and son, Travis. He is the son of Gary and Jeannine Wing of Bryant Pond.

Kellie and Brad Record and grandson, Zachary Lynch, paid Kellie's father, Richard Wing, an early birthday visit last week.

Happy birthday to those celebrating in July. They are: Joe Pete Appleby, Stephanie Appleby, Sarah Jeanne Clements, Cylas Cash, Suzi Curry, Judy Green, Lee Herrick, Pat Hart, Wayne Lawrence, Bethany Lowe, Carolyn Lowe, Kalvin Mason, Rebecca Mason, Terry Merrill, Minna Morgan, Sheldon Morgan, Dylan and Derick Poland (twins), Leon Poland, Peggy Roberts, Alex Ryerson, Vince Stevens, Darcy Tyler, Larry Wilday, Eric Poland and Andrea Wing. A special birthday wish to my husband Richard.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that the price tag on a new garment is more securely attached than the buttons."

West Paris

by Bertha Benoit

Well folks, I guess summer has really arrived with temps in the upper 80s and prevalent thunderstorms. The gardens are finally growing, flowers are abundant and the birds are both numerous and beautiful. I had a phone call this forenoon to say that one of your readers has a clump of brown-eyed susans already; about a month early.

On the evening of June 29, West Paris Grange conferred the third and fourth degrees on a class of candidates for West Paris, Waterford and Lakeside granges. Members of Oxford, Waterford, Rumford, Lakeside and Franklin granges assisted with the degrees and harvest march. Thanks fellow Grangers.

On the evening of July 29, West Paris Grange will put on a potluck public supper at their hall on Church Street from 5 to 6:30 p.m. The prices will be $5 for adults and $2.50 for children; children under five are free.

West Paris Baptist Church was the host for "On the Edge" by Doug Twitchell and his "boys," a program of ventriloquism and Christianity on Saturday, July 1 and Sunday, July 2. He really is good.

Hope you all had a happy and safe Fourth of July. See you all next week.

WAKE THE NEIGHBORS will perform Sunday, July 9 at 4 p.m. on the Bethel common. The concert is the first of five scheduled for this season's Libbie Goodridge Kneeland Memorial Series. The concerts are free and the public is welcome. In case of rain, the performance will be in Bingham Auditorium at Gould Academy.

Mason Township

by Richard Grover

We had a couple of "biggies" in Mason last week. First, little Colton Williams, son of Jeff and Serena Williams, celebrated his fourth birthday. Several of his friends came over, and quite a party happened after that.

Some of the folks around here have been bothered some by deer getting into their gardens, Jeff Williams tells us the way to keep them out is to lay chicken wire on the ground, surrounding your garden. He says the deer don't like the feel of the wire when they step on it, and therefore, they won't cross it. An eight-foot-high fence surrounding a garden seems to keep them out, too.

Some folks around here have also been bothered by seemingly hundreds of cedar waxwing birds getting into either their cherries or their strawberry patches. I have to cover my strawberries up with a white cloth mesh to keep them out. Then they find holes and get to some of the berries, but at least, this way we get enough berries for ourselves.

Brother Rupert was telling me a few days ago how he thought he had the waxwings outfoxed this year. He'd had the assistance of a grandson and two or three of his tall trees. By centering the net over the tops of the trees, they had a seamless cover, down to a level where Rupert could sew another net to the first. "This time, I think I can keep most of 'em off the cherries," he said. However, last Saturday, while we were taking a break from haying and having a beer on the front porch, I happened to glance over to the cherry trees. I told him, "I think you have birds in your tree nets." Sure enough, when he went over to check at close range, there were three or four cedar waxwings under the net around a small sour cherry tree, and a small flock inside one of the big tree's net.

I also heard that Dan Grover had some waxwings in his strawberries and was going to cover them up. Haven't heard how he is making out.

I also found out that Dennis and Rosemary Bunn are back in Mason for the summer. They have a small, "quaint" camp that still has some of its 1950ish décor down by Pleasant River. On this side of the river, Jim and Faye Shieb-Russell are back for the summer from Minnesota. I haven't had a chance to talk to them yet, but I know they plan to build a cabin on their property adjacent to the National Forest land. There have been quite a few other vehicles up our road that I don't recognize, so I suspect there are several other "summer folk" around.

On Friday, Vince and Bev and Lena, Dean and Bev's mom, Georgia Thayer, went for the weekend to Stephen and Muriel Bunker's home in Barrington, N.H.

Ruth Hazelton and Maxine Cram with Bonita and Bob Daust of Florida and Oxford attended a wedding reception for Kelly and Kevin Ronkko in South Berwick on Sunday.

Goodwill Fellowship met Monday evening at Beryl Bonney's cottage on Round Pond with eight members present. A picnic supper was held before the business meeting and Pokeno was played for entertainment. The next meeting will be with Cynthia Lamb at North Pond on July 24 for a potluck supper.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Hi readers. This is a sad household this week, as we lost our much loved dog, Asta, on Monday, June 26. She was such a sweet and smart dog and hadn't been well for quite a while. We'll never have such a good dog as she was. We miss her terribly.

Well people, have you gone strawberrying yet? We haven't yet but plan to go picking one day soon at Barton's in Albany. They always have good ones. Son Gene picked in Bridgton and gave us some and that made us hanker for more. They were good.

If you didn't read me last week and don't know, AJ's Everything (the Stoneham store and restaurant) is open for business now and seems to be doing real well. Everybody is so happy about that.

Albert Nelson Sr. is home from the hospital after having surgery and doing quite well.

The church supper here in Stoneham did well on Thursday, June 22. The next one will be on July 20. In fact, I'll repeat the dates of the suppers if you missed them before. Stoneham dates are Thursdays, July 20, Aug. 17 -- turkey, Sept. 7 and Oct. 12 -- harvest; North Waterford suppers are Tuesdays, July 11 and 25, Aug. 8 and 22; Hunt's Corner suppers are July 13 and 27, Aug. 10 and 24. There you have it, so cut it out and put on your refrigerator. Hope you can make it to one, any or all of these good suppers. You won't be sorry.

Did you ever want to do something exciting and different? Dale Nelson did last weekend. He jumped out of an airplane two miles up in the air. This took place at Sky-Dive New England in Lebanon, Maine. He has a video of it but our VCR wasn't working well so I didn't see much of it. I think it looked like fun and he said it was, but most people wouldn't agree. To each his own, huh?

The Stoneham Thrift and Bake sales are doing well every Saturday at the church vestry from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Lots of goodies and different things each week. Come on in and check it out.

School is out and people are at their camps and cottages when possible. Young people have summer jobs. Molly Nelson is working at a Nike store in North Conway.

Camp Susan Curtis opened June 18 with about 104 kids from the Portland area. Those working for the summer from the local area are Tim Coombs, Ryan and Rheanna True, Diana Gregson, Peter Rodrigues, Rob Lagueux, James Heffner, Deenie Page and Rowena is again the secretary there. There will be no Little Red Wagon this year, but they have other nice programs lined up for the children to enjoy.

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

Bethel's Regional History Center opened for its summer schedule on July 1. The period house museum at the Dr. Moses Mason House will be open as always, Tuesday through Sunday, July 1 to Labor Day, 1 to 4 p.m. with formal guided tours. There are two new exhibits to see this year, one on historic Bethel and the other dealing with images of the White Mountains. Also open is the exhibit on the history of the Robinson House, which opened last year, but continues on the second floor this year in the Robinson House.

Also at the Robinson House is the Museum Shop, which offers a wide variety of historical items, including books, maps, posters, postcards, children's games, and craft kits. ## Mahoosuc Arts Council

The Mahoosuc Arts Council is pleased to announce the return of concerts on the Bethel common this summer. The Libbie Goodridge Kneeland Memorial Summer Series will feature Wake the Neighbors on July 9 at 4 p.m., as the first of five Sunday afternoon shows.

Join Wake the Neighbors as they team up traditional instruments — the fiddle, guitar, bodhran and the like — with the untraditional didjeridoo to produce an exciting sound with an irresistible beat and the infectious flare of Celtic music. Wake the Neighbors hit the traditional music scene in 1996, playing Celtic and North American music for contra dances at Bates College. Since then they've appeared on Maine Public Radio's Music du Jour, New Year's Bethel, at the Maine Festival, New Year's Portland, the Festival de Joie and at numerous contra dances and private receptions throughout northern New England.

Upcoming concerts will feature a chamber ensemble from the International Musical Arts Institute at Fryeburg on July 23, country favorites by Leavin' City Limits on July 30, the Dixieland sounds of the Bellamy Jazz Band on Aug. 6 and great bluegrass music performed by the Fogg Bros. on Aug. 27.

All concerts begin at 4 p.m. and run 60 to 90 minutes in length. The rain site is Bingham Auditorium on Church Street at Gould Academy. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Sponsored by Kneeland's family, the series honors her life of teaching in the Bethel area and her work with children with learning differences. The series celebrates the teaching profession that she dearly loved and today's teachers who care enough to make a difference in a child's life.

Oxford Pomona Grange

Oxford Pomona Grange held two meetings this month instead of the usual one. Both were preceded by the usual delicious suppers.

At the June 6 meeting, at Alder River Grange in East Bethel, an election of officers was held with the current officers re-elected for another year. It was voted to send Stan Howe to the New England Lecturer's Conference this summer. Resolutions of Respect were read for Harold Canwell and Nettie Colby, who had passed away since the last meeting. In the memorial service conducted by the lecturer and chaplain, their names were added to the others whom the Pomona had lost in the last year. They were: Flora Burgess, Henry McMunn, Jack Jones, Florabel Haines, Marion Bennett, Fannie Cummings, Sigrid Knightly, Sidney Abbott and Esther Crooker.

The June 27 meeting was hosted by Pleasant Valley Grange in West Bethel. There were 29 members present, with Mt. Sugarloaf Grange in Dixfield winning the attendance banner. Chairmen of the standing committees gave their reports and Resolutions of Respect were read for Edith Holt.

It being so close to Independence Day, the lecturer's program took a patriotic theme with all singing "Yankee Doodle." Then there was a reading of facts about the signers of the Declaration of Independence by Russell Yates and Olive Risko. For instance, how many remember that there were 56 patriots who signed this document? Who remembers their names other than perhaps John Hancock who signed his so large that the king would be sure to see it? This originated the saying when asked to sign something, "Put your John Hancock here." Besides their names, most people are unaware of what happened to these men who were bold enough to declare our independence from Great Britain and pave the way for our own United States of America. Some of them were captured, tortured and killed. Some had their homes ransacked and burned or otherwise destroyed. Others had family members driven from their homes and jailed. Many of these men had been well educated and had money but died in poverty and rags. What an example of community service.

This being Community Service night, the award was presented by the master and lecturer to Arlan R. Jodrey of Bethel. He has served on all kinds of committees for the town of Bethel including the planning board, budget committee, selectman, member of the fire department, chair of the Oxford County Municipal Association, board of assessors, corporator of the Western Maine Health Corporation, member of the Farm Bureau and of Bethel Masonic Lodge 97, vice president of the Bethel Historical Society, etc. He has also been an award-winning tree farmer and is a certified logger as well as having served in the U.S. Army Reserves. He is the current Representative to the Maine Legislature, District 65. In his remarks following the presentation he stated that his favorite pastime is helping others and referred to the current budget surplus as "overcollected funds." He went on to describe some of the projects underway which will be of benefit to this area.

The next meeting of Oxford Pomona will be on July 11 at Norway Grange 45 for Youth Night. There will be a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m.

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

We were blessed with wonderful weather for the 11th annual Megalink Bethel Art Fair last Saturday. The committee did a wonderful job planning for the right combination of artists and crafters, food booths, children's activities and entertainment. Many thanks to committee chairs, Heather Hale and Kate Houston, as well as members, Irene McGrew and Elaine Riendeau for all their time. The volunteers helped to make the day go smoothly for all. They were: Dillon Gillies, Dave Freiday, Doug Zinchuk, Dave Berry, Carol Savage, June Abbott, Eliza Barnes, Ginny Walker, Barbara Douglass, Susan Herlihy, Mary Jane Howard, Cathy Newell, Laurie Christmas tree, Paula Gillies, Ruth Silver, Al and Jackie Cressy, and Julia Reuter. We were able to involve youth volunteers who helped with the children's art activities. They were: Angela Hooper, Caroline Raymond, Ashley Gould, Trisha Binette, Erin Tripp, Jenni Whitman, and Bethanne Haines.

The next chamber events are the 11th annual Textron Financial/Bethel Area Chamber Golf Classic, to be held at the Bethel Inn on Monday, July 10, and the Key Bank/Mollyockett Day Classic foot races and walking event, to be held on July 15. Applications for the foot races are available at the chamber office. The first 150 registrants will receive a lovely commemorative T-shirt designed by local artist Ken Irons. Also on Mollyockett Day, the chamber will be selling lobster rolls on the common, as well as $5 chances on the beautiful Cannondale Tandem bicycle.

MICAELA B. DAVIDSON

Micaela (Mickie) Grover Davidson passed away in Atwater, Calif., on June 27, 2000, after a courageous bout with cancer.

Mickie was born on July 15, 1940, the eldest daughter of the late Walter Grover and Lydia Dennis. She grew up in the Bethel area and attended the Bethel schools until her sophomore year in high school, when she moved to Brewer to live with her mother. Following graduation, she married James Davidson, who was in the USAF and stationed at Dow AFB in Bangor. They were later transferred to Castle AFB in Atwater, Calif., in 1966. Mickie had lived in Atwater ever since.

Although Mickie had three children, Jennifer, Angela and Amy, she continued taking college courses until she had earned a master's degree in education. She specialized in special education and supervised the education of physically and mentally handicapped children in the Atwater and Merced, Calif. school systems until recently, when she was forced to retire due to deteriorating health.

Survivors include her three daughters, Jennifer Morris, Angela Brown and Amy Steffen; six grandchildren; a sister, Lee Ann Pippenger; a brother, Walter (Peter) Grover; a half sister, Terry Sprague; a half brother, Lawrence Grover; and her mother, Lydia Dennis.
